

Norman A. Fraser — Vice President & Chief Financial Officer

Heaven-Sent Community Services and Veterans Assistance

Welcomes our newest Member of our Team

There are leaders who rise through titles, and there are leaders who rise through purpose. Norman A. Fraser stands among the latter—an extraordinary man whose life embodies the courage, devotion, and ingenuity that define true American spirit.

From his early years as a U.S. Army Sergeant (E-5) in Army Intelligence, Norman learned the art of leadership born in silence and duty—the kind forged in discipline, loyalty, and unwavering commitment to mission and team. Those same qualities became the guiding compass in every chapter that followed. His military service sharpened not only his mind for analysis and precision, but his heart for service—instilling the belief that integrity and honor are legacies worth building into every endeavor.

When Norman left the uniform behind, he carried the soldier's spirit into a new frontier: the sky itself. As founder of cruise air/air sports Inc. Air Balloon Makers, he took his vision beyond the ground, pioneering a craft that turned technology and artistry into flight. His creative ingenuity gave life to magnificent balloons and banners that soared for world-renowned brands—Blockbuster, MetLife, Outback Steakhouse—each one testament to his unmatched workmanship and unrelenting pursuit of excellence. His balloons didn't just carry air; they carried his soul, his imagination, and the unspoken message that discipline and dream can coexist in breathtaking harmony.

As a Championship Pilot, Norman painted the Orlando skies with color and wonder, flying for Joe Kurringer's Church Street Station and Air Sports International, representing Florida's aviation pride in exhilarating competitions and awe-inspiring demonstrations. Visitors and dignitaries who watched his flights at the Orlando/Orange County Convention & Visitors Bureau experienced more than entertainment—they witnessed passion in motion, grace in command, and mastery that only a man of true character and courage could achieve.

Today, Heaven-Sent Community Services and Veterans Assistance is blessed to carry Norman's legacy to new heights. As Vice President and Chief Financial Officer, Norman unites strategic brilliance with the compassion of a servant leader. His direction ensures not only sound stewardship of resources but also the heartbeat of brotherhood and purpose that drives this organization forward.

Norman A. Fraser is more than a veteran, more than an entrepreneur—he is a man who has taken every chapter of his life and turned it into a story of faith, resilience, and victory.

His journey reminds us of all that honor is not just earned in uniform or achievement—it lives in those who continue to lift others higher, steadfast and fearless, rising with purpose into every new horizon.
